

Experiments on Paper

Art on Paper returns to downtown Manhattan's Pier 36 from September 8 to 11.

1
Marc Quinn, Solar Storms (Night MWYG), hand-painted screen print with diamond dust and acrylic, 33½ x 33½". Courtesy Manifest Editions.

2
Abi Polinsky, Untitled 17, photography print on paper mounted on foam core, 30 x 40". Courtesy Tuleste Factory.

3
Visitors explore artwork during a past Art on Paper.

Art on Paper is back once again, featuring top modern and contemporary paper-based art from 100 galleries in the United States and abroad. The event is known for its unique and powerful projects in visual and experiential art, setting it apart as a stellar arts destination in New York.

"This year's fair will feature a strong presence from returning New York City galleries including...Forum Gallery, Muriel Guepin Gallery, Tuleste Factory, The Tolman Collection of New York, Sugarlift, Walter Wickiser Gallery, SEIZAN, Vietnamese Contemporary Fine Art, Heliotrope, Accola Griefen Fine Art and Aux Gallery, among others," says Kelly Freeman, director of Art on Paper. "To round things out, we'll also have a mix of exhibitors from all over the U.S., and international galleries as well—some returning and some new." Among these are Electric Works, K. Imperial Fine Art, CK Contemporary, Sous Les Etoiles Gallery and Koplin Del Rio.

"There are so many moments I'm really looking forward to this year," adds Freeman.

"Dublin's Stoney Road Press will present a large-scale interactive installation created specifically for the fair by Leah Hewson titled Kin Connection, which highlights the significance of connection and support and invites the viewer to escape and explore in a playful manner." In addition, Angiola Churchill, professor emeritus of NYU and former Head of the Department of Art, will showcase Pandora Box II, a work that was initially featured in the Venice Museum and was awarded a Golden Lion by the mayor of Venice, in collaboration with her gallery, Wook+Lattuada.

Art on Paper takes place September 8 to 11. ●